Mobile App Developed by Harbinger Systems Nominated for Mobile Star Awards 2011

Travel planner app nominated for the top industry award for product excellence and market leadership

NOVEMBER 04, 2011:

Harbinger Systems, a global company providing software technology services announced today that TripSketch, a mobile app that it has been intimately involved in as development partner, has been nominated for the annual Mobile Star Awards™ 2011 from MobileVillage®. TripSketch enables users to plan their trip around the world.

Harbinger Systems is a leading provider of software engineering services to some of the world's best product companies. Harbinger is the development partner of TripSketch, and has been involved in its web portal and mobile application development. Harbinger Systems has focus and specialized skills in several niche areas including Mobile Apps Development, Enterprise Product Development and Testing, eLearning Technology and Consumer Internet Applications.

The mobile application has been nominated in two categories, 'Consumer App: Navigation or Location Based Services' and 'Consumer App: Specialty Social Network'. The web version of the application boasts comprehensive information, maps and photographs of popular destinations worldwide. The information about the cities range from attractions, eco hotels, food & drink, popular tours and transportation. Users can use the portal to plan their trip, stay, recreation and dining. The information is rich with contributions from content writers and travel enthusiasts across the world.

"Harbinger Systems works with its customers as a partner in technology innovation, and has been involved with TripSketch since its inception," said Swati Ketkar, Executive Director of Harbinger Systems. "We're very excited to be part of TripSketch's success in the marketplace and its streak of award wins." The nomination comes close on heels of TripSketch bagging Nokia's 'Calling All Innovators 2010' Award in Feb, 2011.

MobileVillage was founded in 1993 as a market and solution development pioneer in the mobile technology space. The 10th Annual Mobile Star Awards™ honor the top Mobile Products, Success Stories and Visionaries in mobile and wireless technology. Award winners will be chosen via online ballot by subscribers to MobileVillage's free e-zine, Go Mobile™.
