Harbinger Systems with Contractor's Aid Named "Best Of 2013" in The Mobile Star Awards

Declared as 'SuperStar' in consumer mobile apps and enterprise mobile solutions categories and honored as the 'Star Innovator'

PUNE, INDIA; REDMOND, WA, DECEMBER 23, 2013:

Harbinger Systems, a global provider of software engineering services, is pleased to announce that Contractor's AID, a powerful productivity application developed by Harbinger, has been named one of the best mobile products of year in the 2013 Mobile Star Awards program. Mobile Star Awards program is hosted annually by the mobile technology news and directory site MobileVillage.com.

Harbinger is the software development partner of Contractor's AID LLC, and has been involved in building this real-time collaboration application for iOS and Android platforms for contractors who want to effectively manage small and large scale projects. The application offers a suite of features including GPS verified time and location tracking, worksite photo uploads, validating and commenting on co-worker updates, building network of contractors, along with an impressive array of project management capabilities, social media enablement and supports diverse business workflows pertaining to construction industry.

Harbinger Systems with Contractor's AID has won the 'SUPERSTAR' Award in two categories:
'Mobile Task Manager' in Consumer Mobile Apps category, and
'Mobile Workforce Management' in Enterprise Mobile Solutions category

The 12th Annual Mobile Star Awards program showcases the best products in categories covering consumer mobile apps, devices, enterprise mobile solutions, enterprise success stories, and technology visionaries. Award winners are chosen by the nearly 11,000 readers of "Go Mobile", Mobile Village's bi-weekly email newsletter.

Speaking about this honor, John V. Banse, Founder at Contractor's AID, says, "The team here at Contractor's AID and Harbinger Systems are proud and thankful for the significant recognition bestowed upon us by Mobile Village's Mobile Star Awards. This recognition amongst industry leading competition is acknowledgement of our hard work and dedication to providing a revolutionary product." "Our commitment and focus have never been stronger as we maintain our resolve to bring an unceasing influx of quality products and features to market," he added. "Winning a Mobile Star Award is a great accomplishment now recognized by the entire mobile industry," says MobileVillage founder and CEO Jon Covington. "Mobile is the fourth great wave of computing, and there are now millions of products competing for our attention. Mobile Star Awards winners and nominees stand out from this crowd as the star innovators to watch and follow."
